

LSL Life – Zachary

Zach has big dreams for the future

Zachary: One of the jobs that I would absolutely love to have is be an anchorman. I just feel like it would be something that I'd be good at because I feel like I'm good at getting my opinion across and listening to the other side as well. And you know, reasoning with them, understanding where they're coming from. I don't think hearing loss would hold me back at all from being an anchorman. You know, it hasn't held me back from anything so far, so I can't see it holding me back from anything in the future.
